ALLIED HEADQUARTERS
North Africa, Sept. 18.—"Let's get at 'em!"

That was the cry with which Allied reinforcements charged the bloody beaches at the climax of the battle of Salerno and it exemplified the spirit with which British and American fighting units overcame the heaviest of Nazi resistance behind the walls of the breached fortress of Europe.

The Fifth Army is still fighting furiously on the Salerno front and there is harder fighting ahead, but today some of the story can be told of how the Allies were knocked back to within three miles of the beach, and came back to end what was probably the fiercest battle of the war.

There is a story to be told triumphantly only because of the most complete co-operation between land, sea and air forces and the supreme confidence of the Allied troops that the Nazis could offer.

Anglican Synod Issues Message As Parley Ends

TORONTO, Sept. 18.—(CP)—Meetings of the 18th session of the general synod of the Church of England in Canada were concluded at Trinity College last night.

The synod issued the following message:

"The saving of the bridghead

"The bishops of the Church of England in Canada assembled in Toronto call the clergy and people of the church and all other men of goodwill in this hour of emergency and crisis, to a new recognition of the kinship of Almighty God and a fresh dedication of themselves to His service."

BEAR WITNESS

"They call on their people to bear public witness to their faith in God as revealed in Jesus Christ the Lord, and to stand with their fellow-believers in the worship of the church. This witness must be expressed in every relationship of human life. Therefore Christian citizens must find their society on co-operation and sacrifice in provision for those on whom adverse circumstances inflict anguish and need. And further it is required that they should fearlessly enumerate principles on which a fair, just and Christian society should be founded and condemn and place beyond the Christian pale practices or provisions which ignore or deny the basic truths of the faith."

To this end the bishops call their people to renewed faith in God so that by His grace they may be enabled to advance in that life of worship and service in which they are called."

Labor Congress President Raps Bonus Scheme

MONTREAL, Sept. 18.—(CP)—A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Congress of Labor, has criticized the bonus plan proposed by the federal government.

Mr. Mosher was commenting during the final day of the convention, on press reports from Ottawa that family allowances on the order of $1 a month per child are being considered by the Dominion government with a decision expected in the near future.

PROTESTS PLAN

Mr. Mosher received permission from the convention to refer to the resolutions committee a motion protesting against the plan.

Delegates adopted a motion which asked the federal government that:

1.—A floor of 50 cents an hour be placed under wages in order that wage regulations "will not be hampered when dealing with rates of pay below this level."

2.—That the right of unions to present cases before both regional and the National War Labor Boards "with or without employer support" be made clear.

3.—That the method of computing the cost of living index must be changed "to bring the index into line with the actual rise in the cost of living."

4.—That a full cost of living bonus be paid "on a uniform basis" in all industry.

5.—That the cost of living index be revised monthly and increases in cost of living bonus be paid monthly rather than every three months as at present.

ASK HIGHER PENSIONS

Delegates passed motions requesting upward revision of pensions for the aged and the widowed, downward revision of age of eligibility for pension, encouragement of co-operative extensions to indicate of "full and complete rights of citizens, and direct representation for labor on workers' compensation boards."

LABOR CONGRESS PASSES NUMEROUS RESOLUTIONS

MONTREAL, Sept. 18.—(CP)—A first busy session of the Canadian Congress of Labor annual convention here, working through the dinner hour to clear up remaining items on a full agenda, passed a wide range of resolutions including demands to the government for income tax reforms, a national health program and sanctuary for refugees.

Another resolution condemned a reported federal government family bonus program while the convention went on record as favoring affiliation with the Anglo-Soviet Trade Union committee.

Passing the motion on affiliation, the convention endorsed a resolution asking for steps to secure closer co-operation and unity of action between the organized workers of all allied nations so that after the peace the four freedoms can be established.

TAX RESOLUTION

The income resolution asked for immediate revision so that exempt income would be raised to $500 for married men and $300 for single men. It also asked that overtime pay and cost-of-living bonuses be exempt from income tax.

A third clause called for no deductions on the incomes of workers who, during a year, did not earn sufficient to place them in a taxable group.

The warfront was remembered in a resolution that urged an invasion of western Europe "consistent with sound military strategy."

The health resolution asked the government to inaugurate a national health plan providing free hospitalization and medical attention for workers and their families.

A motion on refugees asked that Canada be offered as haven to persons suffering political and religious persecution and, recently, refugees in Portugal. This resolution also asked that Canada's immigration policy be reviewed in the light of post-war settlement programs.

OFFICERS ELECTED

The election of officers saw A. R. Mosher re-elected in the presidential chair.

Other officers re-elected were A. Macdonald, secretary-general; president, S. Sprink of Toronto; second vice-president, Pat Connors of Ottawa; secretary-treasurer, J. W. H. of Montreal.

With these four officers the following delegates chosen by the convention will form the executive committee of the Congress: S. Barrow of Glace Bay, N.S.; T. P. of Montreal; S. M. of Toronto; T. J. of Windsor.

Delegates as they wound up the final business of the meeting last night, also agreed to hold their 19th annual convention next year.

Their last acts included demand for abolition of the Canadian Senate, release of the majority and minority reports on the national war labor board inquiry into labor relations in Canada, and a resolution to the C.C.C. as "representative of labor" on the board and labor representation in Canadian delegation to the peace conference.

Resolutions urged free transportation within the country for all members of the armed forces on furlough, abolition of postage charges on soldiers' mail, a $500 bonus for every soldier, sailor, nurse and merchant marine with one year on active service, and $500 for each subsequent year to be paid on termination of war "to help in re-establishment."

Requested for Labor Minister Macdonald's "immediate resignation" was passed out by the convention after it had once been referred back to the resolutions committee for reconsideration.

Knox Warns Battle For Japan to Come

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(CP)—Frank Knox, United States war secretary, in England for a 10-day inspection trip, warned yesterday that the main battle against Japan is still to come but added that "it may be significant that our heavy bomb was a Japanese aircraft carrier in the last four months."

"Apparently they don't like to come out where it is well," he said in a press conference.

Knox said he could not imagine a happier day than this in the light of Italian developments. "It is a joy to see how thoroughly we British and Americans have learned to work together," he said.

The secretary arrived in Britain by plane, accompanied by Capt. Lealand P. Lovett, chief of the army public relations department.

Holding the Line on the Nutrition Front

A Message to Our Customers and Friends—Everywhere

MILK and Dairy Products have been given an honor position in Canada's wartime Nutrition Program. An important job in normal times, HOLDING THE LINE on the Nation's food front is doubly so in wartime. While you are having your problems with ration coupons—price ceilings—rental control, etc., we have been having ours, wrestling with necessary wartime conservation, shortages of help, priorities in securing supplies and equipment. So, we can genuinely sympathize with each other.

We don't know what you think of our service through this strenuous period. Perhaps you feel like cussing us at times... if the Woodland milkman should be a little late, or when your dealer has to say: "Sorry—we have no Woodland ice cream today." We have no doubt fallen down at times under the strain, but we wish you to know that Woodland Dairy and the loyal family of Woodland employees are honestly trying to do their very best to serve you.

The manpower problem and the difficulties in obtaining necessary equipment and supplies to operate our business have been pretty tough. Sometimes we did not know whether we would be able to keep going or not.

We are now operating our Ice Cream Department with women—also our Print Butter department. There is some very intricate and expensive machinery in these two departments, and if anything happened to it repairs would be practically impossible to obtain. However, we take off our hats to the ladies... they've done a grand job so far. Our Laboratory and Test Room are also operated with women.

It's still tough going—but, the wonderful spirit of co-operation and goodwill on the part of our customers, dealers and friends everywhere, has been a tower of strength—an inspiration to the entire Woodland staff to dig in and hold the line on the nutrition front. For this thoughtful co-operation Woodland is deeply grateful.

The war will be over some day... soon we hope. In the meantime we will go on striving to give you the best possible service in order that we may continue to merit your confidence and your business in the happier days when the war is over.

Revised Rules For New Homes Are Announced

OTTAWA, Sept. 18. (CP)—The munitions department announced last night revised basic standard governing the issuance of licenses for the construction of new houses and apartments.

The revision followed an announcement by Munitions Minister Howe earlier this week that the number of licenses issued by the construction committee would be sharply reduced to conserve building materials.

The department said in a press release last night that applications for houses or apartments now will be considered only if the maximum area of the proposed dwelling is shown to be within limits established by the construction control.

Formerly, applications for licenses were dealt with on the basis of the estimated cost.

NEW PROVISIONS

Under the new provisions, except in unusual instances, no license will be issued for houses or apartments over the following maximum areas:

Single dwellings: One story or bungalow type, 900 square feet; one and one-half or two story, 1,200 square feet. Areas are to be calculated on the exterior dimensions of the building. Attached garages, verandas, and all roofed areas must be included in the maximum area. Where rooms are established in attic or basement for living quarters, the building will be considered as a two-story dwelling. No rooms are to be finished in basements or attics for recreational purposes.

Apartment construction will be limited to buildings containing no more than ten units, and no application will be considered where suites exceed 1,000 square feet in area. Such suites must include all walls, stairways, halls and other spaces. Luxury apartments with larger floor area rooms will not be licensed.

These limits have been worked out to supply the necessary living requirements in those areas where housing is badly needed.

We were on top of a hill and Jerry was on us with M.G. fire, snipers, and he had a Sherman gun that was firing occasionally. One of the snipers hit Bob. He had been given a good shot with his pistol."

"The same sniper shortly afterwards put one through my helmet and the rim of my helmet was cracked. It just enough so I only had to pick pieces of my helmet off of my shoulder—otherwise I would have been hit exactly as was."

Lt. Scott was wounded by a machine gun bullet in the leg and was taken to a hospital in North Africa waiting to be sent to his unit.

Lt. Scott, who is 25 years of age, was born in Edmonton and attended high school in this city. Mikhailovitch Is Conscripting Letter from Home!

The British Unionist Party has received a general dispatches health by the Alberta Telegrams, which contains information in Washington that is located in the mountain country held by Yugoslav forces. In the following dispatch, which bore the date-line "In the Free Mountain of Yugoslavia," the sender identified himself as a correspondent for the Democratic news agency (D.N.A.).

Young men of Yugoslavia, between the ages of 18 and 22, have been conscripted by Gen. Dr. J. Mihalovitch, guerrilla leader, to help prepare an army to aid the Yugoslav government in the Balkans, a correspondent of the Democratic news agency (D.N.A.) said today.

A total of 3,672 of these youths, between 1801 and 1921, were called up to the Yugoslav army in the month of August to King Peter II between Aug. 15 and Sept. 10, in the west coast of Yugoslavia.

It was the first time since the collapse of Yugoslavia that Mikhailovitch was growing in the number of young men, the correspondent said.

Badoglio Escapes Through German Lines Around Rome

LONDON, Sept. 18.—Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio escaped through German lines around Rome, it was revealed authoritatively today, and is safe in Allied-held territory in Italy, where he is negotiating economic, financial and political phases of the Italian armistice.

First word on the whereabouts of Badoglio since the German occupation of Rome Sept. 10 was contained in a censor-approved dispatch from the British command headquarters in the Mediterranean. It said the Allies recognized Badoglio as the head of the Italian government, and that he was carrying on post-armistice negotiations.

Badoglio was known to have left Rome almost as German troops laid siege to the capital. Since then, he had been in Allied-held territory, and it was reported that he had escaped with King Victor Emmanuel and Crown Prince Umberto to Sicily or had been taken to Africa.

His arrival in Allied-held territory in Italy assured Anglo-American authorities that the Italian government was now in Allied hands, and that the only legally-constituted government of Italy. So far as is known, there is no civil government active in the German-occupied portion of the country.

Swiss reports said that German efforts to set up a new Fascist government in the name of Benito Mussolini had gained little popular support and rumors were circulating that the former Duce actually is dead.

Shopping Easy, Attractive at City's Varied Stores

Mrs. J. S. Glossinger, 11316 66 street, buys a sweater for her daughter, Anne, at the Johnstone Walker store. Anne's brother, Johnny, is an onlooker as clerk Beatrice Lambert, 9630 102 avenue, completes the sale.

A busy time at a grocery counter in Eaton's store. With Edmonton cook stoves working overtime these days, grocery stores all through the city are busy from opening to closing time.

Shopping for a needle or a threshing machine, carries a thrill that had its beginning with time itself.

In the days of Julius Caesar, Romans bought swords and shields and slaves; in the days of Good Queen Bess it was ale and tobacco and tallows; today it's anything from the ever-essential bobby-pin to a fox-furred winter coat.

Of course, it's the feminine forces of a family to whom shopping appeals as the glamorous, exciting pastime that starts at one end of the shopping district and threads its ex-hausting way through every store, past every counter, until there are simply no more outlets for shopping energy.

When Mere Men go on a "buying spree," he doesn't eagerly embark on a purchasing extravaganza that has the earmarks of henroll blitz.

But he gets a secret delight out of strolling casually to a counter, asking for a collar button, paying for it, and walking jauntily out of the store. "Can't understand why these women fuss and bother about shopping as they do," he mutters. "They just don't know how to shop."

Mr. Mere Male, having just bought his collar-button, can't understand the technique of female buying. Take the last time he was persuaded to go dress-hunting.

"It was a black one she wanted. We walked miles, talked hours, saw hundreds of dresses, dozens of them black. She didn't buy a dress at all. When she got home, said it was really a dark red one she wanted. Instead, she let a clerk talk her into buying a new set of dinnerware. Women just don't know how or where to shop."

Mere Men's wife has heard that song before—and knows all the answers.

"If you want to do the shopping, mister, you just hop to it—go out and buy the groceries, the meat, the children's coats, hats, shoes, stockings, buy bobby pins, hair, soap, pajamas, house paint, dog collars, cosmetics, cat food and baby blankets. I'll be glad to see you do it!"

That's where Mere Men shines as a diplomat. He says something about being too busy, leaves the shopping to his wife, and keeps on saying she's the answer to a sales clerk's fondest prayer.

But the shopping goes on—day in any day out—to the tune of $245,000,000 in Alberta in 1942. It will go on and on, forming a major activity and recreation for citizens who, through the retail centres every day.

Music Performs Important Role in Building Morale

Selection of Teacher Salient Factor Leading To Success in Studies

By JOHN OLIVER

Supporting a recent music project, President Franklin Delano Roosevelt of the United States set forth that "Music builds morale; music inspires our fighting men; music spurs soldiers on the protection front to new goals; music refreshes all of us, young and old alike, as we move forward in our wartime tasks to inevitable victory."

As usual President Roosevelt has spoken clearly and wisely, and has given a clear and concise definition of function music is performing these days.

Music no longer is looked upon as a luxury. It is a necessity. Whether or not your taste is for the music that goes round in the juke box or for that which comes from the opera house or symphony hall, whether you like music for fun, or entertainment, or as a profession, it is, nevertheless, a necessity and is probably the most successful morale builder known.

For those who desire to know something about music, to play the piano or violin, to sing, or to know the why and wherefore of musical combinations and harmonic progressions there are many factors to be considered. The enjoyment of music is greater if you can make music yourself, either by singing or playing some instrument, and this enjoyment is increased if you understand the grammar of music, or if you put it another way, the anatomy. Mastering the vocal art, an instrument, or becoming a musician or a theorist is obtained by study and practice. Some musicians are fortunate in that they have been able to obtain the essential knowledge entirely by their own efforts. The great majority learn by their own industry combined with supervision of teachers.

TEACHER IMPORTANT
The choice of a teacher is important. Child psychology has entered into the situation to a wide extent, and supervised teaching has helped tremendously to prepare young teachers for their approach to the structural work. The parent can do much wrong in sending a child to a well-trained expert of instrumental pedagogy.

The coincidence of disagreement in temperament between teacher and pupil is less likely to be a factor, or even negligible at the present time than it was, say 20 years ago. In the main this disagreement in position is attributable mainly to the fact that the well-trained instructor takes into consideration the difference in personality among pupils, and the psychological issue.

The genius of the musicians mentioned above, along with a few others, such as Debussy, Ravel, and others, are the most outstanding of the early Belgian composers. But to dominate for a century and a half the whole of Europe, stretching from the North Sea to the Mediterranean, and everywhere they found a school of directors, cathedral choirs, little impressiveness to religious and secular ceremonies, served princes, prelates and popes.

To those who are interested in music, the Belgian through have been there, either during the Great War of 1914-1918 or as tourists, there are many associations of the famous musicians with places made familiar to Canadian tourists. Those who were in Belgium during the war, even as he will be expelled again, gave only passing thoughts to Belgium. It is not until recently that it is said that Mons is not famous only for its many slag-heaps or the fact that for the British Army the Great War began and ended near there. The great musician, Richard Strauss, was born in 1864. He became choristmaster for Philip of Burgundy when he was 15 years old. Seven years later he was appointed canon at St. Wandrille in Mons, receiving at the same time the benefices of Cassel, Bruges and Seignies. He died at Liège in 1905.

When the Canadian Corps fought its terrible battles in and around Cambrai, not far from the field of Hamlet, where many years before the British troops, likewise, had fought the good fight, little time was spared to recall that Guillaume Dujoy, who shaped the destiny of Belgium almost exclusively as the Canadians were shaping its economic and political destiny, was born at Hainaut about 1400, and died at Cambrai in 1474.

Not did the Cambrai of that fateful Oct. 1, 1918, when the Canadian Corps on its outskirts, with probably the most convincing demonstration of devastating and concentrated rifle and machine gun fire of the entire war, threw back a counter-attack by eight or 10 German divisions, seem like a city in the cathedral of which Dujoy had for centuries been silent on Oct. 1 when the 3rd Canadian Division, sweeping across the Escaut, captured the city and drove far beyond, in one of the most brilliant attacks of the war.

Mr. Leirners deals with such well-known composers as Beethoven, Wagner, Brahms, and others, and comes right down to the present. He declares that "Musical Belgium has clearly remained true to its extraordinary past. Our composers have not lost touch with the world."

Stabbing of Actor Termined Homicide By Inquest Jury

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 18.—(AP)—An inquest jury returned a verdict yesterday that the stabbing death last Sunday of screen actor David Gajjar G. Bacon was homicide, but made no attempt to fix responsibility.

Police homicide detectives produced a blue sweater, found in the street near where Bacon was stabbed, which the inquest jury found to be the murder weapon. The jury also heard testimony from the coroner's jury that Mrs. Bacon, the former Greta Keller, Hungarian actress and singer had told him it was not her husband's. Mrs. Bacon was also in the presence of Fremont staff police when an exhaustive search for the owner of the sweater.

The Bulletin's SPORTS by Hal Dean

IT WOULD appear that Currie Barracks is in a very happy position for the moment at least, so far as senior horse material is concerned. And unless there is a sudden exodus due to postings elsewhere Calgary Army should not be entirely overlooked by the dopsters.

Tommy Anderson, winner of the N.H.L. player award as a member of Brooklyn's squad two years ago, played with Currie Barracks in the N.H.L. last season. He is now in the military and is in the military at Cadmon and likely will be back in time to help out.

Doubleless though, Tommy is anxiously scanning the horizon these days hopeful that a good goal keeper may show up. For with a reasonably proficient netminder Currie Army would be well away.

Calgary R.C.A.F. does not seem to be so fortunate, but plenty can happen between now and fall. Tommy's partner between now and fall, Scotty McPherson, former R.C.A.F. junior and who was with Springfield two years ago and last season, is still in Calgary but well advanced in his flying course. Roy Brandish, class looking junior who played part of last winter with No. 3 "D" Depot in the Edmonton league, Bill Dettell and Ben Paxton are also in the southern city. The airman are exceedingly well fortified for goal night now as Russ Dettell is there.

ORNEY BATTED 300
N.B.T.T. honors for this week's Calgary Navy-Yankee baseball series at Redbank Park went to Harry Orney, now with the R.C.A.F. and who played in the Football League. Orney, who hit Currie Barracks Air Force club bats, batted eight hits in 16 trips for an even .500. In addition the Tecumseh second sacker scored seven runs and added a score of stolen bases.

In four years of junior and senior play at Redbank Park, Harry has never been thrown out at second. He also played three games with Air one this year and

Unlocking Adventure

By CHARLES COURTNEY

CHAPTER XVIII

RETURNING to Bremen, I met Frederick Krupp, president of the great Krupp shipbuilding plant at Kiel. Johan George Stein, with whom he had worked out the Stein Krupp method of submarine gold mining, Sir Basil Zaboroff, and several other international financiers who were interested in undersea hunting. Sir Basil invited several of us to spend a few days in Bremen.

On the first night Sir Basil gave a dinner party for us. Around the table was a group of impressive graying, sometimes paunchy financiers of many nationalities—Greek, Hungarian, French, German—and even a few young ones. Sir Basil was able to talk to each one of them fluently in his own language.

My partner, a blond English girl in a smart dress, kept shaking her curls in my face like a feather duster as she chattered rapidly in a sort of cooling baby talk. Sir Basil was a good host. When he saw that I was more interested in talking to him than in acquiring the blond, he produced a partner for Barbara.

As the evening wore on, we talked quietly. Sir Basil had a mobile dark face, the olive skin of the Levantine, I guessed, and a way of making every subject he touched upon sound like a colossal adventure.

Above the noise of the orchestra and the shuffle of feet, he talked about treasure hunting in the 15th century, when it was one of the world's major financial businesses for private individuals. Gold hunters were licensed by the crown and sailed with great hullabaloo.

"In this age when there is more treasure than ever on the coasts of the world's principal seaways," Sir Basil went on, "modern engineering has made salvaging much more profitable. It is business that is looked upon as a cross between piracy and pure speculation."

In the morning, while his other guests were asleep, Sir Basil and I had breakfast on a terrace overlooking the Mediterranean. He told me that Prince Oscar of Hohenlohe, who had a palace at Kiel, wanted me to open a safe which had remained closed since the death of his father, Prince Heinrich, in 1918. But before I returned to Bremen he wanted to engage me for a salvaging venture for the next season.

In confidence, he told me that a syndicate of which he was a member had discovered the wreck of the U.S.S. Hampshire, the British cruiser that went down off the Orkneys in 1916 while it was carrying Lord Moberg and about 1,000 men to some unknown rendezvous. It was never acknowledged by the Admiralty and was known to but few people that the Hampshire was carrying not only the war lord but $1,000,000 of gold to Russia to help with the warring army.

That gold was what they were after—$1,000,000 in bullion of the Bank of England. Already a sand sack was at work digging at the right end of sand that buried part of the wreck, and the salvaging could begin in the spring as soon as the weather permitted.

Sir Basil's brown eyes grew darker and brighter as he talked, and the color flushed his cheeks. He was so persuasive that he fired me with excitement. At first, I said that I would make up my mind and let him know, but before we had finished a second cup of coffee, I had promised that I would join. All the way to Bremen, then, to Kiel, my mind was awash with doubts, and as if to shake my confidence still further, I noticed that I was being followed by secret service men.

When I reached Kiel and presented myself at the palace, I was taken to a dingy little basement where Prince Oscar and a group of men were waiting for me. All then in opera caps, tall hats and masks. I wondered why all the dress and the masks which I have marked men at my back. I insisted that we have a civil official present and waited until the prince telephoned for a member of the police.

The safe was concealed behind packing cases. After they were pulled away, I found the safe was a familiar American make and comparatively easy to open but, out of generosity, I took a long time at it, enjoying the impatience of the masked witnesses.

When I pulled back the door, I stepped away and did not see what was inside. However, Prince Oscar was so pleased that he took from his finger a diamond ring and presented it to me, the ring which I wear today. He also gave me seven old Gothic keys from the palace.

Today, as I Bremen, I stand again with Sir Basil, who would listen to none of my misgivings. He promised that the salvaging equipment would be the best obtainable and the plan as carefully laid out. There was practically no chance of failure. Two internationally famous divers were working out preliminary details already and would get in touch with me. The fee was staggering.

Having committed myself to join one of the greatest treasure hunts of modern times, I took a North German Lloyd liner to New York as Sir Basil said, the thought of it did undoubtedly quicken the pulse, but my doubts were so lively that I did not tell my wife and daughter.

Here is BROWN-haired Mary and her snowy white lamb. Mary is on her way to school and does not know that her little lamb is following her. Mary's dress is YELLOW, so are her socks. Her shoes are BLACK like her lamb's feet. Mary's hat is YELLOW also, trimmed with BLUE flowers with GREEN leaves. The lining of her hat trim is PINK (use RED lightly). The book she is reading is RED, and so is the house and chimney. The roof of the house is BROWN like the trunk of the tree. The leaves of the tree are GREEN, of course, but the cherries are RED. The grass is light GREEN with YELLOW daisies. There is a GREEN box too.

The path is BROWN. There is a YELLOW bell under the lamb's chin, and it is a wonder that it is not lost. Mary has pretty PINK cheeks and a RED mouth. Paint the border of this picture RED and the mittens BLUE.

Four City Guides to Receive Gold Cords From Princess Alice

When His Excellency, the Earl of Athlone, Governor General of Canada, and Princess Alice, Duchess of Gloucester and Earl of Kent, arrived in Edmonton on Tuesday, four city guides will receive gold cords from Her Royal Highness.

The gold cord implies achievement in all abstract qualities and the award can be made in a guide's life after several years of service, in which she showed development of character, leadership and intelligence. The qualities named above, and a broad training in basic work, outdoor life, signalling, first aid and message carrying, have enabled

We're surprised with requests from the readers and some in the service who have sent in their special problems for Superman to solve. We'd like to present them all in every issue, but many superman stories are so long and the time of service and the problems are so many that we're presenting them more frequently suggested.
